North America's Leading Cannabis Packaging Conference Comes to New York City

The East Coast's leading packaging show, EastPack, is teaming up with cannabis industry experts and associations to deliver a robust educational and exhibition event—CannPack East, December 7-9, 2021. This event will bridge the "information gap" by connecting the production, sale, distribution of cannabis products (food, medical, and recreational) with the existing packaging networks serving food, pharma, and medical device markets. Get direct access to key decision makers, engineers, brand managers, and more actively looking to source packaging solutions.

Why Cannabis Packaging Conference...

Exhibiting at the Cannabis Packaging Conference provides an abundance of opportunities to showcase your company, products, and services directly with buyers and purchase influencers in a dynamic, professional environment. This event will be the starting point for delegates, exhibitors, and sponsors to hear from leading experts in the industry and establish beneficial partnerships.
